Aline Grata

PhD student in cell and developmental biology with a strong passion for science communication aline.grata@pasteur.fr

Core business

PHASE 1 Skill development

PHASE 1 Evaluation

PHASE 1 Information management

PHASE 1 Expertise and methods

Personal and relational qualities

PHASE 2 Communication

> I have given oral and posters presentations in several contexts, from lab meetings to departmental seminars to wider conferences. As the head of the social media and communication team for Piplettes magazine, the science communication magazine of the Pasteur Institute, I enjoy communicating science on social media platforms to non-experts in the field. I collaborated with the museum of Institut Pasteur and carried out an interview with Nobel Laureate Katalin Karikò for a science exhibition.

PHASE 1 Analysis, synthesis and critical thinking

PHASE 1 Open-mindedness and creativity

PHASE 2 Commitment

> My passion and enthusiasm for science has led me to move from Switzerland to London, UK for my Master's. Afterwards I worked in Chicago (USA) as a research technologist, and I then moved to Paris (France) for my PhD.

PHASE 1 Integrity

PHASE 1 Listening and empathy

Business management and value creation

PHASE 1 Managing change

PHASE 1 People management

> During my experience as a research technologist, I developed the ability of helping people with their projects and to collaborate with them. As an outcome of this experience, I am co-author in a published paper and in another one currently under review.

PHASE 1 Producing results